An inn where you can experience Forest to Table-Woodworking the forest in Hida

Operated by "Hida no Mori de Kuma wa Odoru", FabCafe is a woodworking atelier where you can stay. Located in the center of the town where craftsmanship is alive, FabCafe Hida is a quaint building which was renovated from an over 100 year old traditional residence. We own a forest in the same town as the inn. There is a wood workshop renovated from a sake brewery and a "Kuradashi Hardwood" corner where you can purchase wood by the amounts of 1 yen per gram. The digital manufacturing cafe is equipped with the latest machines such as laser cutters, 3D printers using Hida wood, so you can experience making small items to full-scale woodworking. For example, a chopstick making workshop takes about 1 hour (costs starting from 3,000 yen). In addition, we regularly hold "Forest Lessons" talk events on the topic of the relationship between the forest and people. Also, on our "Mountain Viewing Day" events, you can spend your time freely in the forest. In collaboration with local forestry officials, we offer a wide range of activities related to forestry and forestry, such as tours of construction sites, sawmills, and visits to workshops where you can learn about Hida's craftsmanship. By providing timber procurement and product development support for architects, designers and companies, we aim to work with the local forests and create industries.

Hida Furukawa where the beautiful cityscape fascinates people

Hida City, Gifu Prefecture, is an area rich in forest resources. 93% of Hida Furukawa is forest, and 70% of this is natural hardwood. Hardwood abundant land is rich in biodiversity, blessed with nutrient-rich soil and water, and the rice, sake, and sweetfish from these lands are exceptional. In addition, the culture of high-level wood craftsmanship called "Takumi of Hida" has been handed down, and the craftsman's manufacturing spirit is still alive. In the central area where houses using kumiki (joinery) technology are lined up, the beautiful cityscape that emphasizes unity in shape and color is appealing to many people. FabCafe Hida is located in this center and is renovated from an old house of a former sake brewery, which has been around since the Edo period. FabCafe Hida inherits its history and combines the technology of its predecessors with cutting-edge technology, and operates as an activity base to connect tradition to the future while utilizing local resources.
